WASHINGTON.

Gloomy Condition of Affairs in China.

Two Vacancies Likely to Occur on the Supreme Bench.

Coming Reunion of the Army of the Cumberland.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 29.—Private advices from China are not very encouraging. It is fully conceded in official circles that the situation is extremely critical, and that it is dangerous for Europeans or Americans to be much on the streets.

VACANCIES ON THE SUPREME BENCH.

Such information has leaked out—probably by the last advices of the Chinese troubles—as to the intentions of Justices Nelson and Grier to retire from the bench. Mr. Nelson, who is now in his seventy-first year, has been on the bench for twenty-seven years, and Mr. Grier, who is seventy-six years old, has been on the bench for twenty-four years. Both have been in feeble health for some time past, and it is said that they have determined to be relieved from the arduous duties of Chief Justice and the other Judgeships at once.

REUNION OF THE CUMBERLAND.

Invitations to attend the fourth annual reunion of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, to be held at Cincinnati, on the 3d, 4th and 5th of next month, have been received by the Presidential Cabinet officers, Senators, and members of the House of Representatives. The reunion this year promises to be especially successful, and all the General officers are expected to be present. Among the speakers announced are Gen. W. T. Sherman, Gen. Thomas, Gen. Hooker, Gen. Howard, Gen. Schofield, Gen. Rosecrans, Gen. Granger, Gen. Steedman, Gen. Hazen, Gen. Wood, Gen. Beatty, Gen. Stanley, Gen. Negley, Gen. Whipple, Gen. Fry, Gen. Garfield, Gen. Gibson, Gen. Barnes, Gen. Willich, Gen. Turchin, Gen. Van Derveer, Gen. Connell, Gen. Dodge, Gen. Hurlbut, Gen. Ward, Gen. Cox, Gen. Hawley, Gen. Cruft, Gen. Carlin, Gen. Morgan, Gen. Mitchell, Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Logan, Gen. Palmer, Gen. Fisk, Gen. Howe, Gen. Dodge, Gen. Smith, Gen. Hovey, Gen. Osterhaus, Gen. Leggett, Gen. Force, Gen. Ransom, Gen. Butterfield, Gen. Ewing, Gen. Hascall, Gen. Ruger, Gen. Slocum, Gen. Davis, Gen. Howard, Gen. Baird, Gen. Newton, Gen. Wagner, Gen. Kilpatrick, Gen. Wilder, Gen. Wilson, Gen. Hatch, Gen. Dodge, Gen. Crittenden, Gen. Granger

IMPORTANT ADVICE.

The Republicans of this city must assume a grave responsibility at the approaching election. They have to vote for a member of Congress, for Senator and Representative in the Legislature, 20 Aldermen and as many Police Justices, and all the other officers required by our city, county, and town governments. These Aldermen could do less by which from seven to eight millions of dollars is raised by taxation, and expended annually; these Supervisors have an unlimited power of taxation and expenditure, and how they have exercised this power this city and county have had reason to know and could testify. The coming Legislature will have the duty of electing a Senator of the United States, appointing the State Senate, and of, putting into operation the new and reformed constitution. These are important duties, requiring more than ordinary ability, and strict personal integrity. A ticket has been presented to the Republicans of this city and county, made up by mainly self-appointed delegates. Let any person take the ticket and ask himself who of those candidates has the capacity or the personal character for the responsible duties of the office he seeks. If the voter does not know the men, he has not yet understood the principles of the candidates. And the man who will perform this duty, will at once discover the magnitude of the fraud that has been perpetrated upon him, and how grossly the confidence of a political Convention, he is required to accept, endorse, and vote for, on account of imbecility, unfitness, corruption, knavery, and personal dishonesty, which would not dare present itself under any other circumstances. Shall the Republican organization, which has existed in this city so long, be thus perverted to be victimized by the first footpads every year? Shall any party be used as a mere vehicle to carry into office a gang of desperadoes whose only occupation is the plunder of the people? We are not asking for or to designate the men on the ticket who are a disgrace to it, a disgrace to the convention which nominated them, a disgrace to the party whose candidates they are announced to be, and will be a county disgrace to the county which has to support them. Fortunately, they are notorious. Their unfitness is so needed, and that they ought not to be elected is admitted by those who nominated them. What, then, is the duty of the voter? To see that they are not elected. There men have been nominated by the regular party convention, and how are they to be got off the ticket? If we vote against them, we must vote for Democrats. No such election has a authority or legal existence. Shall we submit to be led by the nose and fool to a blind submission to the decree of a convention? Shall we submit to be robbed by the nominees of the Republican party, directly or indirectly, of dollars to be raised by taxation

Now other people may resolve to keep things, but my resolve is that there are no things to keep. I will sell out my entire stock of Millinery, Fancy Goods, Notions, &c., at cost. For I look back upon that fatal day, the 8th of October, 1871, with feelings of horror. They may smile individual acts, but I feel that I am a ruined man. Yes, I am a victim of circumstances. Had I been prepared for the fire, I could have saved $50,000 worth of goods. But I was not prepared, and I am not. Now, I am going to sell out my entire stock, and I am going to do it in a hurry. I will not stop to count the cost. I will not stop to consider whether I am losing or making money. I will not stop to ask what I have paid for goods. I will not stop to ask what I can get for them. I will not stop to ask what I will get for them. I will not stop to ask what I will get for them. I will not stop to ask what I will

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

SAINT GERMAIN-EN-LAYE, Oct. 18.

I am writing this from the famous terrace of the Castle Saint Germain, with the statue of Noel Valerien frowning down upon me from the opposite abutment, and the Arc de Triomph standing out from amongst the Arc de Triomph ranged from amongst the chimneys of Passy and the spires of Issy, a distance of seven or eight miles, in a direct line, but as the crow flies, or as in reality the railroad runs, by no means so short a distance. The lofty dome of the Cathedral of St. Denis, which was so conspicuous from Louis Quatorze's palace, is entirely concealed from view by the intervening hills, which are covered with vineyards, orchards, and cornfields, and dotted with villages, (for, as in most countries, the peasantry live together in communities for mutual protection,) the nearest of which, Nanterre, (the birthplace of Saint Geneviève, the patroness of Paris,) is distant about two miles from the foot of the terrace. The Seine, which, from the point of view, appears to wind round the base of the hill on which I am standing, and to flow through the valley at my feet, is in reality about a mile and a half distant from me, and is only visible in one or two places, where the trees which line its banks are thinner than elsewhere. The valley, which is about a mile in width, is bounded on the south by a range of hills, which, though not very high, are sufficiently steep to be picturesque, and which are covered with vineyards, orchards, and cornfields, and dotted with villages,

LITERATURE.

George Eliot is writing, and a novel, as many hoped, but a long dramatic poem.

Queen Victoria has written a letter to Prince Frederick Charles, expressing her gratification at his position and achievements.

Dr. Wilde announces that all the copyright of Oscar Wilde's poems, which are published in book form, with a report of the Recognitions.

The venerable William Howitt is engaged in writing a poem on the war.

Three of the stories in "Lippincott's" for November are by William Black, the first being "Green Pastures," a legend which is said to be by Mr. Johnson at the rail-road station. "The Hill of Venus," and "Jennie of the Prince's."

Dr. Ellis Yarnall has long been the head-master of the Friends' Select School, Philadelphia, and the very first thing these scholars in fine were expected, principally because many of the ladies could not understand a word of the lectures. Now, however, the honest German "Frau," instead of the French "Madame."

It may be remembered by many readers that, in 1868, the Archduke Henry of Austria contracted a morganatic marriage with a Mrs. Hoffmann. In order to do this he was obliged to take one of his inferior titles, and he and his wife were known as the Count of Waldeck. On account of this misalliance, he was compelled to leave Austria, and has since resided at Lausanne, in Switzerland. Recently the King of Bavaria conferred upon Mrs. Hoffmann the title and honors of a Countess of Waldeck, to enable the Count to procure her release.
